YANKEES NOW SHOWING PROPER FIGHT SPIRIT

Young Recruits Will Develop Into Pennant Contenders in Short Time.

DEAD TIMBER NOW OUT OF LINEUP

Chance's Aggregation Ceases to Be a Percentage Fatter for the Others.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, April 23.—Baseball bugs and bugettes believe Frank Chance has assembled a club of ball players for the owners of the New York Americans that will be heard from before the season is ended. Commenting recently on the team's outlook, a prominent New York baseball expert said:

"One main difference between the machine that Frank Chance is now piloting and his 1913 array is quite an important factor in the Yankee future."

"In 1913 he had a ball club that, in the main, was going back. Most of them were already about through, ready to fade away and disappear from the big show."

"Today Chance has a club that is coming forward—a young club that should continue its development for some time. This is a start in the proper direction, and the only one that will count."

"Another change is shown in the vast increase in club spirit. The old Yanks had been hammered on the conk for so long that about all the pep had been ruffled from their system. Getting trimmed had developed into a habit. When they took the field they expected to be beaten before the first ball was pitched."

"The new array looks to be quite a different proposition. They are full of fight and fire ready and anxious to go to it in and exchange wallops. And it takes quite a cluster of confidence to be willing to tear in and exchange wallops with the Mackmen. But the Yankees did it in the recent series and, what is more, they romped home with the bacon.

"Rival managers that have been feeding upon the soft, yielding flesh of the Yankees for three seasons or more are likely to absorb quite a bump this season and a touch of indigestion. Chance has not developed any pennant contender yet, but he has the most improved machine in either circuit."

OPEN FORUM.

For some time past we have known that petty thieving and larceny has been going on near Stayton, Oregon. Not only chickens are swiped but a private dwelling has at different times been looted and canned fruits, cigars, trinkets belonging to men's apparel—some 200 pennies belonging to a savings bank for children and at one time $5.00 in cash together with some other change taken from a trunk. The climax came on Saturday night of April 18, 1914, as the folks were coming in from a drive to the city, and were coming through the driveway. A hold holdup was attempted and coming from behind a large tree near the roadway a regular holdup demand which was quickly answered by two ringing shots which sent the highwayman screaming for help. We are not sure as to who the guilty one is, but if any one knows of anyone who has been mysteriously put out of commission this way give us a clue to the outlaw. Notice was given at the time of the holdup and of the shooting, but we are sorry to say that in so far as we know no special effort was made to arrest the offender until they were given plenty of time to make good their escape. We hope the cause for such delay is from a misunderstanding. But it seems to us that no decent, civil citizen is compelled to long endure such indignities as are there, and the good people of Stayton does not stand for it.

Late Yesterday

At New York.—It was learned Caruso, the tenor, had been sued again for breach of promise, this time by Miss Mildred Miffert, who wants $100,000. At San Rafael, Cal.—Mrs. Emma Smith filed suit for separate maintenance against Hiram C. Smith, millionaire lumberman, charging him with desertion and improper relations with other women.

HOFF TALKS OF BOARD AND ITS ECONOMIES

O. P. Hoff, the state labor commissioner, warned regarding the recent criticism of him by the state board of control. Mr. Hoff said in part: "No one, no matter how big a fool he may be, likes to be called one. Still I admit I would rather be called an honest fool than a wise rogue, but it should be beneath the dignity of any public official to use any such language in exchanging documents with other departments that become public records. The board of control in its fight against the enforcement of the eight-hour law on state work, in which it finds it necessary to use language above indicated, is hidden behind. 'What the legislature intended' (no matter what the supreme court has said) and 'the savings of the taxpayers' money.' I believe in this matter it is proper to look into the record of the board and see the extent of its sincerity. The legislature of 1911 to meet the demand for more office room placed with this same board $150,000, with strict injunction that it should not go beyond that amount.

"The board commenced the construction of a building, in which to meet the desire for marble lustre in the halls and rich elegance in the rooms, and made it necessary for the legislature of 1913 to dig up of the taxpayers' money an additional $170,000 to finish the job. Another $50,000 was handed out to renovate the old building; nearly a quarter of a million of dollars for increased splendor in office rooms for some of the officials over 'the intent of the legislature' of 1911.

"For insisting that the state obey its own laws, as the same may raise the payroll $6,000 (one single cent on every $1,500 taxable property), though it gives work to some one that needs it, I have to be branded a fool. While to overstep the legislative injunction some $170,000 (and the end is not yet) is wisdom. I think the taxpayers should look into all this buncombe with an eye to discern the genuine from the counterfeit.

FIRE STILL RAGES IN MINE.

Redding, Cal., April 23.—Fire which broke out Tuesday on the 1200 foot level of the Midas mine at Harrison Gulch, near here, was still raging today. Fire fighters have found it impossible to enter the shaft on account of gas and smoke. The extent of the damage is not known. The Midas property is one of the best gold paying mines in California.

Gardeners at the postoffice are working hard on the lawns at present. Postmaster Hucklestein plans to have the federal lawn the best in the city, if possible.

The president would have left at once but that he wished to be here over Sunday, when members of the chamber of deputies will be elected for the next four years.

He will remain at Eze-Les-Pins until May 14th, when he must entertain the king of Denmark in Paris.

SPECIAL VENIRE ORDERED.

Judge Kelly ordered a special venire of 18 men drawn this morning for jury duty in the circuit court for Marion county for Tuesday, April 28th. The new venire reports for duty at 9 o'clock on that date. On account of the fact that the case that was up this morning being completed more quickly than was expected, court was adjourned before 11 o'clock this morning. It was not known whether a case could be secured for trial this afternoon or not.

Owing to some misunderstanding concerning the charter membership of the Y. W. C. A. the time has been extended in which applications for membership can be filed, until May 2. All that is required to become a charter member, is to sign the constitution and pay a membership fee of one dollar.
